

Shades of A Woman CD Featuring Nationally Recognized R & B Artists To Benefit Sisters Network Inc.

Houston, Texas December 15, 2008 The soothing sounds of R & B artists Will Downing, Lalah Hathaway, Angie Stone, Wayman Tisdale, Shanice are among the featured artists on specially produced CD, "Shades of A Woman," benefiting Sisters Network Inc, the first national African American breast cancer organization.

The CD is produced by Los Angeles based producers, Rex Rideout and Joi Huckaby Rideout who have family members that have been affected by breast cancer.

"Sisters Network is providing a great service and support for African American women and families suffering from breast cancer. My family has been a victim of this devastating disease more than I can say, so I hope in some way, the CD helps to raise resources that make a difference," said Rex Rideout.

The smooth listening CD features various tracks including "More Betta" featuring Angie Stone, "I'm Gonna Love You Just a Little More Baby," by Will Downing, "Looking Back," featuring Lalah Hathaway, Wayman Tisdale's "Laid Back Kinda Love," and "Bring It To Me," featuring Ledisi. Also performing on the CD is the song, "Hold On" featuring Shanice, "Lovin You Is Easy" by Maysa, "Can You Feel Me" performed by Malcolm-Jamal Warner and "Love, Respect and Peace" and "Promises," featuring Lauren Evans and MC Lyte.

"Producing music that matters is so important to me. It's great to know I have old and new friends that I could count on to contribute to this meaningful project," adds Rideout.

"Sisters Network is grateful to Rex and Joi Rideout as well as the wonderful and talented artists who have collaborated to donate a portion of the sales from the "Shades of A Woman" CD to help raise breast health awareness and resources to support Sisters Network continued efforts to help African American women around the nation to beat the breast cancer odds," said Karen E. Jackson, CEO/Founder, Sisters Network Inc.

The "Shades of A Woman" CD is available for $20.00 and can be purchased at www.sistersnetworkinc.org; or www.shadesofawoman.com. For more information, please call 1-866-781-1808.
